NATIONAL WHIG NOMINATIONS.

FOR PRESIDENT, GENERAL WINFIELD SCOTT, OF NEW JERSEY.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT, WILLIAM A. GRAHAM, OF NORTH CAROLINA.

RESOLVED. That the Whig people of Washington, conscious that the ground they tread is worthy of the consecrated name it bears only so long as it is peopled by men who hold to the Union of the States as the source and fountain of the blessings of public order and private right—of liberty and law—of happiness at home, and honor throughout the world: and believing that in the principles and policy of the Whig party, and in the tried patriotism of its glorious leaders, is the best safeguard of the Union from domestic discord or foreign quarrel, no note the union from domestic discord or foreign quarrel, no note the union from domestic discord or foreign quarrel, no note the thearts around the flag of the Union, to whomsover of these leaders it may be confided in the approaching contest.—Proceedings of a Whig meeting prior to the nomination.

"I HAVE SERVED THE UNION FOR FORTY-ODI YEARS, AND FEEL MYSELF A CITIZEN OF EVERY PART OF IT; AND WHATEVER OF LIFE AND STRENGTH I MAY HAVE SHALL BE DEVOTED TO ITS PRESERVATION."-Gen. Winfield Scott's Castle Garden Speech.

WHIG MASS MEETING. The Whig Club of Georgetown, D. C., will hold a Grand Mass Meeting on Wednesday, the 18th, at 8 o'clock, in front of Mrs. Lang's Hotel. The Whig Clubs of Washington and Alexandria and the neighboring counties, and the citizens generally, are cordially invited to attend. The meeting will be addressed by several distinguished speakers. A fine band of music will be in attendance to enliven the occasion. Whigs! the time for action has arrived. Rally, then, in strength, and show our opponents the unshaken confidence we have in the integrity of our nominees. JENKIN THOMAS, President.

HUGH G. DIVINE, Secretary.

Meeting of Working Men.

We refer with commendation to the proceedings of a meeting held at the City Hall last even-

We are ever prompt to respond to whatever promises advancement to the sons of toil, and we ever with delight behold their efforts at self-improvement. The advancement of their interests and the improvement of their social condition can never be promoted by other human power than their own; and we have never known them make an exorbitant demand for recompense. "The earth is the Lord's, and the fulness thereof;" and his children are all invited to possess it as an inheritance. It is for the welfare of society that all legal rights should be respected; but the interests of that same society demand that every possible incentive should be placed before the laborer. The injunction to labor is of uniwhether poor or rich, are faithless to the command, and unworthy the protection of their fellow-men. The only distinction sanctioned by in enabling its possessors to make choice of the preferred pursuits.

Would that a general recognition of this truth could be practically obtained. The happiness of both the poor and the rich would be promoted by it: opinion, is far inferior in every respect, and one for while the drones upon society are themselves who has shown himself to be opposed to Western unhappy, the state of things which permits them interests by his votes in Congress, I cannot lend to live without labor throws an excess of toil upon men who are themselves more meritorious, but whose ancestors have not been provident or penurious enough to husband the increase of years. The best known means, however, of dissipating the evil of idleness in the wealthy is to increase the compensation of the poor laborer; for while this benefits him in a direct manner, its gress to make political capital out of the pardon benefits are general in many ways, as by elevating his social condition, inducing the more wealthy, who do not approve of high wages, to labor for themselves, &c.

ernment is asked to increase the compensation of either praised or blamed for it. How they would the laborer in the same ratio that a fortunate in- have acted, we do not pretend to determine. Mr. Fillmore listened to this, we should be pleased to know the grounds Mr. Sumner and others, and complied with their upon which they are based.

Death of Mrs. General Taylor. A telegraphic despatch informs us that Mrs. General Taylor, relict of the late President Zachary Taylor, died at East Pascagoula at 6 o'clock on Saturday night last. It appears but a few brief days since General Taylor and his estimable family entered this city in the floodtide of hope and enjoyment, and took up their abode in the Presidential mansion, where the vista before them of four years appeared but too brief a period to possess the honors to which they had been raised. And yet, ere even that term has expired, the grass has long grown around the tomb of the noble old warrior, and dark portals.

Government Pabulum. The Columbia (South Carolina) Carolinian, speaking of the discontinuance of the Southern Press, says:

"The paper received no government pap, without which no paper can exist at the federal capital !"

communication from the Secretary of the Treasury, in reply to a resolution of the Senate, calling for information as to the application of the onst survey service to the coast of California. Messrs. Pharr and WALKER presented the me norials of the workingmen and mechanics engaged on the public works in this city, suggesting that the arguments lately advanced in favor of an increase of the compensation of clerks applied more strongly in their favor.

A message was received from the President in reply to a resolution calling for information whether any proposition had been made for the transfer of the sovereignty of the Sandwich Islands to the United States. In it the President, from reasons of public interest, declines answering the inquiry.

Mr. SEWARD offered a resolution authorizing r commission to be sent to these Islands, to negotiate for their acquisition to the United States. Laid over.

The civil and diplomatic appropriation bill was eported back. Also, a bill for the benefit of the creditors of Texas. The bill for the construction of a ship canal round the Falls of St. Mary was taken up. Mr. HALE offered the homestead bill as ar mendment, but sub sequently withdrew it, at the suggestion of General Cass, and gave notice of

The bill appropriating ten millions of acres of the public lands for the benefit of the indigent insane was passed-yeas 98, nays 54.

The House went into Committee of the Whole on the state of the Union, and proceeded to the consideration of the navy appropriation bill.

City Items.

Yesterday the "Independent Order of Rechabites" assembled at their hall, on the Navy Yard hill, and marched in line through our principal streets to Georgetown, where they partook of an excellent dinner. We are informed that they did not have half of their members out; yet they made a fine appearance. At night they held a meeting in Temperance Hall, to which the public were invited.

Our city has been much disturbed of late by gangs of rowdies. Yesterday several of our most respectable citizens were attacked, on South Capitol street, and severely beaten by a gang rallying under the name "Philadelphia Rangers." Two have been arrested, and it is to be hoped the remainder may be taken. The watch-house last night had five inmates, black and white. Two were sent to the "Farm "-the others gave security and paid costs.

In the Criminal Court yesterday, the following assault and battery cases were disposed of, viz: Nace Johnson, assault and battery on Charles Carter.

George Loutner, assault and battery on J. H T. Werner-guilty of assault only.

Mathias Butler, (negro,) assault and battery John Moter, found guilty of an assault. Maria Ratigan, assault and battery on Mary Schaffer Daniel Carrol, assault and battery on Cathaine Mitchell.

Wm. Hounschild, assault and battery on E. W. Acker, a boy.

Up to 11 o'clock this morning, Judge Crawford was endeavoring to finish the docket as fast as possible. The court has been at work a long time, and no doubt the judge, jury, and all conversal application; and they who disobey it, nected with it, would be glad to finish the term.

The bull fight at Madrid for the benefit of the poor realized 56,000 francs, or $11,200. Quite a profitable bull fight, and very charitable spectators! What devils people can be, still fancying they are saints!

The hackmen in Washington double their charges when you need them. That is, in rainy A Friend of Peace.

The following article from the North American ommends itself to the favor of every reflecting mind. It is sometimes said that no friend of peace should sustain the political aspirations of warrior; but how far from wise are such declarations! The history of our own wars but too plainly shows how prone are drawing-room statesmen to provoke the unsheathing of the devastating sword. A Mr. Polk in the Presidential chair, yearning for glory and renown, may, by a single dash of his pen, cause tens of thousands to perish in an unnecessary war; yet from the ensanguined field how often arises the hero and sage to whom the puny destroyer must give place in the hour of triumph!

But to the article from the American:

"Those who have become familiar with the evils of war are seldom its advocates. On the contrary, in proportion as they have been exposed to its perils, and witnessed its hardships and listressing spectacles, their aversion to it increases, and none are so loth to invoke the dreadful agency of arms in deciding the disputes which disturb the friendly intercourse and relations of different communities. A review of the history of all the hostilities in which nations have resorted to the sword for redress will discover that, in the majority of instances, they have been fomented by those who never experienced the horrors of a battle, nor expected to encounter the dangers and privations of a campaign. Statesmen and diplomatists—politicians, at least—who are accustomed to form their ideas of his intention to offer it as an amendment to the nilitary life and its incidents from narratives which conceal the deformities of the picture, and present, in romantic coloring, the exciting and peroic details, seldom regard, in their controver sies, the terrible consequences of embroiling heir respective states in belligerent conflicts. Nay, so far from being restrained by any wise humanity in avoiding the waste of blood and reasure incurred in such contentions, they contemplate only the glory and gains of victory, and too often precipitate nations into wars, which a just estimate of their calamitous effects, even to those who ultimately triumph, and temperate, judicious negotiation, might readily have averted.

"Peace, in fact, has no stauncher and more devoted ally than the veteran soldier, who can contrast her amiable hospitalities, secure comforts, and beneficent influences upon the happi-ness and prosperity of mankind with the melancholy destruction and brutal spirit of war. And this is especially true of him whose whole military career has been limited to the necessary resistance of aggression upon those rights and principles of international intercourse or social ndependence, the maintenance of which can alone preserve the pacific relations of the world, and perpetuate the blessings which make peace

"Such has been the experience and office of Winfield Scott, from the day when he volunteered to defend his country against the unprovoked encroachments of Great Britain, previous to the war of 1812, until the present time. He has participated in no offensive movement-led no aggressive army-conducted no campaign that was not purely in defence of the honor and liberties of the nation he served. He has been at all times emphatically the champion of right wher ever the United States have been forced to repel nvasion from abroad, or to suppress intestine listurbances; and in each difficulty of the state n which he has acted a part, his solicitude to prevent bloodshed by all conciliatory measures ossible under the circumstances has been ever onspicuously exhibited until every honorable expedient of peaceful and amicable settlement had been exhausted. Indeed, his biography records several memorable instances in which his wise, moderate, conservative conduct, pursuing the benevolent, humane disposition of his heart, has happily allayed the excitement of contending parties, and gained an interval of cool, dispasonate reflection, in which rational councils have interposed and removed the causes of animosity

"Moreover, his uniform magnanimity to the vanquished, displayed in a thousand different acts of kindness and mercy, as well as his devoted personal attention to the sick and wounded of his own troops, have eminently illustrated the native goodness of his nature, and contributed in no small degree to mitigate the dreadful sufferngs of a campaign. In his presence, and under the influence of his noble spirit, 'grim-visaged war' has indeed been made to 'smooth his wrinkled front:' and the signal efforts which he has used upon all proper occasions to prevent any actual employment of military power in the adof the Union, peace at home and with all foreign nations would be secured by the strong moral force of his administration, sided by intelligent and honorable treaty; and that for one brief pe riod at least we should hear no more of aggres sive extensions of the national territory or piratical invasions of the domain of neighboring governments; and, in short, that all those outrages upon public law and sound, honest, patriotic policy, which have heretofore been dignified with the title of 'Democratic progress' would cease to disgrace the republic.

"But we are not confined to General Scott's acts alone for testimony respecting his sentiments in relation to war. He has expressed himself upon the subject more than once in his speeches and correspondence; and when practised upon consistently, as his have been, are worthy of implicit credit. Some years ago, he was asked for a literary contribution to Peace Album, and immediately wrote on a blank page of the book the following eloquent

" If war be the natural state of savage tribes. peace is the first want of a civilized community. War no doubt is, under any circumstances, a great calamity; yet submission to outrage would often be a greater calamity. Of the two parties to any war, one, at least, must be in the wrongnot unfrequently both. An error in such an issue is, on the part of chief magistrates, ministers of state, and legislators having a voice in the question, a crime of the greatest magnitude. slaying of an individual by an individual is, in comparative guilt, but a drop of blood. Hence the highest moral obligation to treat national differences with temper, justice, and fairness; always to see that the cause of war is not only just, but sufficient; to be sure that we do not covet our neighbor's lands, 'nor anything that is his;' that we are as ready to give as to demand explanation, apology, indemnity; in short, we should especially remember, 'all things whatso-ever ye would that men should do to you, do ye o to them.' This divine precept is of universal obligation; it is as applicable to rulers, in their transactions with other nations, as to private individuals in their daily intercourse with each other. Power is entrusted by the author of peace and lover of concord to do good and to avoid evil. Such, clearly, is the revealed will of God. wrote as follows to a Peace Convention: 'My participation in war, as well as endeavors on several occasions to preserve peace, without sacrificing the honor and interests of my country, are tained the moral right to wage a just and neces-sary war, and, consequently, the wisdom and humanity, as applicable to the United States, in the present state of the world, of defensive preparations. If the principal nations of the earth, liable to come in conflict with us in our natural growth and just pursuits, can be induced to disarm, I should be happy to see the United States follow the example. But without a general agree-ment to that effect, and a strong probability that it would be carried out in good faith by others, I am wholly opposed to giving up home pre-paration, and the natural and christian right of

TO HOUSEKEEPERS, LODGERS, &c.

To Mesers. CROMMEIN & FARRESTRE.—Sire: I am now using the second bottle of your English Vermin-Destroyer, and think it my duty to inform you that wherever it has been applied, the Roaches and Bugs instantly disappear, and there is no indication of their return. I have tried several other remedies, but without any effect. I can with confidence recommend it to the public as the best remedy I ever used for the destruction of Roaches and Bugs. Yours, &c.
